

My voice in America's Democracy

Freedom was not always in America a long time ago. As America kept growing it became a lot more free than it was. Today America is the most free country in the world. Some countries are not free like us because they don't have any school or a home to live in and money to buy food for their families. The people that live in the other countries want to move to our country because of our amazing freedom.

If everybody could play a role in America's Democracy they would be able to help another to make people's lives better with no arguing about who's going to be what other different kinds of things. If my voice became a role in American democracy I would make laws better and just help people that need something to make their life a lot better than what it is now. If my voice really came a part in America's freedom. I would need to know a couple things about America's freedom before my voice became a part of it. Maybe one day I could become mayor, commissioner, and president of the town and state that I live in or my country. If I did, I would talk about how our laws are different from all other countries' laws. Some people don't have freedom like Russia and China. All the wars that are going on in different parts of the world are signs that democracy does not exist in their part of the world. If there was a way that they could make a law like freedom instead of fighting a war people there would be happy.

If my voice really did have a role in America's freedom it would be a really important thing to me by helping win some of the most important problems in the world today.
