

My Voice In Democracy

As kids in the United States we have the right to freedom unlike other countries, even though we can't vote as kids. One thing that we have in America that most kids don't have is the internet. This allows us to watch the news, and then we can try to change the things that are wrong. One thing that is wrong is that most kids don't have the internet because they can't afford it. In most countries some people can't afford food or enough money for a house. I can use my voice in Democracy to change lives.

As kids in America we are grateful that we can live in a good house, and have nice cars. We have had soldiers fight for our country and help us be free. They risk their lives every day to help our country. They go out onto a battlefield so people don't destroy our country. Our soldiers' voices are always used to defend our freedom.

Every day we go to school, but some kids can't go to school, such as homeless kids on the street. Some people have to live in a tent because a house is too expensive. I wish I could change that for them. I would like to use my voice so they don't have to live on the streets anymore. Sometimes it is hard for parents to even afford a backpack for their kids. However, this is a problem with the economy. We can use our votes for our elected officials to make the economy better.

In conclusion, we should help people in the world but we should also focus on ourselves a little bit too. Even if it was just something small like giving them some food. We can use our voice in democracy to change the world.
